Films on Demand

- Films on Demand is an academic streaming video collection available through the Kirtland Library.
- You can use these videos as sources of information for some assignments.
- You can create your own segments to include in presentations.

Note: You will need to use your Single Sign-On user name and password to access this library resource.
If you just want to become familiar with what Films on Demand has to offer, you can search for a relevant term or use the browse menu.
If you choose to browse videos, you will see a breakdown by topic. If you choose producers you will see a list of the contributors.
When you browse videos, the number in parentheses shows the number of complete videos identified for that subject. For more results, search for relevant terms. A search for a relevant term will show video segments as well as complete videos in the results.
When you browse producers, you can see what’s available from your preferred producers.
If you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to contact the Library.

library@kirtland.edu

989-275-5000 ext. 246